

Alliance Française de l'Illawarra

Would you like a French qualification that is recognised wherever you go in the world?

The DELF is for you!

Do you know how to exchange ideas with a new acquaintance, how to write someone a postcard or how to understand a timetable announcement in a train station?

You may have the level required to obtain the DELF Level A1.

What is the DELF?

The DELF/DALF- the Diplôme d'Etudes de Langue Française and the Diplôme Approfondi d'Etudes de Langue Française - are the French equivalent of the IELTS English language test taken by migrants who wish to become Australian citizens.

There are six levels:

- A1 Elementary
- A2 Upper elementary
- B1 Intermediate
- B2 Upper intermediate
- C1 Advanced
- C2 Proficient

The exam is offered by the Alliance Française de Sydney twice a year, in MAY and NOVEMBER and costs $200. It tests a student's communicative skills in real-life situations and is divided into two parts: 1) A collective exam testing listening, reading and writing and 2) A 20-minute face-to-face speaking exam.

The Alliance Française de l'Illawarra is calling for expressions of interest from students, who would like to take preparation classes for the DELF exam.
